Statewide GP Obstetric Shared Care Program

Are You Pregnant?

- ✓ Are you planning to have your baby at a public hospital?
- ✓ Would you like your GP (General Practitioner) involved in your antenatal care?
- ✓ If you answer Yes to any of these questions, read on.....

Who is the Program For?

- □ Women who want to see their own doctor (GP) for pregnancy care and give birth to their baby at the public hospital of their choice.
- □ Working women who are unable to attend appointments easily during hospital clinic hours.
- □ Women with young families.
- Women with limited transport to attend hospital clinics.
- □ Women who reside in rural or remote areas.

About the Program

- □ The GP Obstetric Shared Care Program is a model of pregnancy care available for women birthing at any public hospital in South Australia. It is funded by the Department of Health.
- □ Your GP needs to be accredited with the Program. If you do not have a GP, the Midwife Coordinator may assist you with finding an accredited GP.
- Your GP will provide most of your care during your pregnancy, with only 2 or 3 appointments at the hospital. Your care during labour, birth and immediately afterwards will be given by hospital doctors and midwives.
- □ If any complications develop during your pregnancy, your GP will refer you back to the hospital for any specialist care.
- □ There is a Midwife Co-ordinator who will liaise with you and your family, your GP, the hospital and other agencies as necessary.
- Confidentiality is maintained.

Advantages of GP Obstetric Shared Care

- Seeing the same doctor (your GP) for most of your antenatal visits.
- □ Knowing your doctor, and they know your medical history.
- □ Access to community supports.
- Access to postnatal support for feeding difficulties and any other problems.
- Convenience of appointment times.
- Direct interlinking with hospital services.
- □ Usually shorter waiting times compared with the hospital.
- Your doctor's surgery is usually closer to home or work.
- □ Your doctor's surgery usually has easier car parking than the hospital.
